Teresa, I swung by East Trafficway after talking with you a couple of days ago and Fisk was washing a van outside the old Sears garages and water was flowing almost to the street. It did not appear that they were using very much detergent, if any. I think I should contact a person at Fisk in charge of maintenance and inform them that no matter where they perform this activity, if complaints are received, they will be in non-compliance with storm water regulations and would be required to either obtain an NPDES permit from DNR or wash vehicles at a carwash tributary to City sanitary sewer. Let me know what you think.

Randy:

I went by there yesterday afternoon and it appears that the water is running out of the old Sears Automotive center and into the street. My thought is that - since it will be torn down soon - forget about it. But thanks for getting back with me!!

Steve Meyer recommended that I notify you about this.....Fisk Limosine manufacturer offer washes their cars and the runoff ends up ponding in the middle of the street behind the old Sears Building. Steve thought that you may need to know in case they are in violation of something.
